Business Reader : Session 5

21 September 2026 · 90 minutes

0. Status check (5 minutes)

1. I Do

Article (1/n)

"Kiddo, the category-focused quick-commerce app for baby care that embeds life-stage intelligence into the shopping experience for young parents, has raised its pre-seed round of 12.5 Crs led by Campus Fund and a clutch of strategic angels. The investment will support customer acquisition, dark store expansion across Delhi NCR, technology and product development, and team building as Kiddo scales to become the default platform for baby-care purchases

Article (1/n)

"Kiddo, the category-focused quick-commerce app for baby care that embeds life-stage intelligence into the shopping experience for young parents, has raised its pre-seed round of 12.5 Crs led by Campus Fund and a clutch of strategic angels. The investment will support customer acquisition, dark store expansion across Delhi NCR, technology and product development, and team building as Kiddo scales to become the default platform for baby-care purchases

Question	Explanation
What is this company?	Q-com for baby care
What is it trying to solve?	Life stage intelligence in shopping experience
For whom is it trying to solve?	Young parents
Where is it operational?	Delhi NCR
What has it done right now?	Raised funding
What do I need to know about the other stakeholders involved?	Campus Fund

TAKEAWAY 1

Questions should dictate how you are reading

Else the reading will be very superficial, All your personal practice should be focused on identifying the right set of questions

Article (2/n)

Kiddo addresses a core parental problem: the lack of fast, reliable ways to purchase age-appropriate items with confidence at the moment of need. Previous to his MBA from Stanford, Ankit founded Feeding India, the country's first organised food-recovery network for children. He scaled it to 85+ cities and a community of 21,500+ volunteers before its acquisition by Zomato in 2019. Post-acquisition, he served as

Director at Zomato, leading operations

Article (2/n)

Kiddo addresses a core parental problem: the lack of fast, reliable ways to purchase age-appropriate items with confidence at the moment of need. Previous to his MBA from Stanford, Ankit founded Feeding India, the country's first organised food-recovery network for children. He scaled it to 85+ cities and a community of 21,500+ volunteers before its acquisition by Zomato in 2019. Post-acquisition, he served as

Director at Zomato, leading operations

Question

What is the company trying to solve?

Who is solving this problem ?

Will they be able to solve this problem ?

TAKEAWAY 2

Founder/founding team pedigree and past work is used as a proxy for future success

In future we'll have many situations where direct information for taking a decision won't be available and we'll have to figure out proxy information, to take the same decision

2. We Do

Article (3/n)

India’s baby care market reached $31 billion in 2022 and is projected to reach $56 billion by 2029, growing at a CAGR of 13 – 14%. A significant portion of this industry remains unorganised, with existing quick-commerce players offering limited relevant SKUs for parents. Urban Indian parents are increasingly prioritising quality, safety, and convenience over legacy brand names, creating a massive opportunity for a curated, vertical platform. Approximately 65% of FirstCry’s revenues already come from own and white-label brands, signalling that the market is ready for new entrants who compete on product value rather than established brand equity.

Kiddo differentiates through three reinforcing moats: habit-building triggers, age-based curation, and a community-led growth engine.

Article (3/n)

India's baby care market reached $31 billion in 2022 and is projected to reach $56 billion by 2029, growing at a CAGR of 13 - 14%. A significant portion of this industry remains unorganised, with existing quick-commerce players offering limited relevant SKUs for parents. Urban Indian parents are increasingly prioritising quality, safety, and convenience over legacy brand names, creating a massive opportunity for a curated, vertical platform. Approximately 65% of FirstCry's revenues already come from own and white-label brands, signalling that the market is ready for new entrants who compete on product value rather than established brand equity.

Kiddo differentiates through three reinforcing moats: habit-building triggers, age-based curation, and a community-led growth engine.

Article (4/n)

"Today, we're getting hundreds of types of chips and sodas in minutes, yet the sleep-deprived young mothers and fathers in Tier 1 India have to rely on multiple platforms that take days to serve them. These were never built for them," said Ankit Kawatra, Founder and CEO of Kiddo. "Kiddo's mission is to help young parents looking to get access to "better" products for their child and fast. We've seen new discount platforms come up that offer faster deliveries, but none is truly focussing on curation. Campus Fund's backing validates our vision of becoming the default platform for every Indian parent."

Since launch, Kiddo has curated over 30,000+ SKUs across essentials, fashion, and a blended gross margin significantly higher than the typical of horizontal grocery quick-commerce. Kiddo targets parents with high household incomes, starting with Delhi-NCR

Article (4/n)

"Today, we're getting hundreds of types of chips and sodas in minutes, yet the sleep-deprived young mothers and fathers in Tier 1 India have to rely on multiple platforms that take days to serve them. These were never built for them," said Ankit Kawatra, Founder and CEO of Kiddo. "Kiddo's mission is to help young parents looking to get access to "better" products for their child and fast. We've seen new discount platforms come up that offer faster deliveries, but none is truly focussing on curation. Campus Fund's backing validates our vision of becoming the default platform for every Indian parent."

Since launch, Kiddo has curated over 30,000+ SKUs across essentials, fashion, and a

Key Discussion Theme

What is Kiddo’s right to win?
How does it protect its right to win?

Session Outcomes

1. Reading Framework

Question based reading for greater comprehension

2. Business Acumen

Business Model, Quick Commerce Stack

3. Article Analysis & Data Restructuring

Can a sharp ICP focus and curation be your MOAT?

4. POV Formulation

Prediction, what makes it true or un-true