EARLY DISTRIBUTION

Offline communities

OPERATING LOGIC

Taste → Signal → Repeat

From trial to repeat.

Physical communities are our first distribution layer.

A simple loop turns first taste into a repeatable channel.

01

Reach a community

Enter through a flea market, college fest, office, or pop-up stall.

02

Trigger the trial

Let taste do the selling through a low-friction first purchase.

03

Capture the signal

Listen to flavour, price, and SKU requests from real customers.

04

Build the repeat

Use the winning formats to seed pantry drops and future online demand.

BUILD TRUST IN THE REAL WORLD, THEN TAKE THE PULL ONLINE

Why offices, fests, and events? They compress sampling, social proof, and repeat purchase into one high-trust environment.

Go-To-Market, Traction & Roadmap

While quick-commerce is the long-term vision, we are building our foundation offline — winning our first true fans one bite at a time.

01

CHANNEL STRATEGY

Offline first.

Our immediate launch channels are physical flea markets, college fests, and high-footfall pop-up stalls. A pull product earns its first conversion when the customer gets it into their mouth.

02

EARLY TRACTION

Taste wins the trial.

Ground-level tasting trials have generated overwhelmingly positive reviews from early customers. “The tastiest healthy chips and millet puffs I’ve tried.”

03

15-DAY HORIZON

Stabilize, then scale.

Over the next 10–15 days, we will stabilize offline operations, supply chain, and initial stall rollouts. Next unlock: introduce highly requested SKUs from early customer feedback.
